ARE YOU WONDERING WHERE LINUX IS HEADED???
ARE YOU CONSIDERING DEPLOYING LINUX IN A MISSION CRITICAL ENVIRONMENT???

Come hear IBM, Intel, Red Hat, and Linux Evangelist and creator of the Open Source Definition Bruce Perens provide their view on both the Linux Marketplace, and BEST PRACTICES for Linux in the mission critical space.

Date:	Wednesday October 08, 2003
Location:	Denver Tech Center Marriott
Evergreen Ballroom
4900 S. Syracuse
Denver, Co. 80237
1-303-779-1100
Time:	9am to 1pm with continental breakfast and sandwiches at 12pm

To Register for this event please visit: www.ibm.com/servers/events/regionalsales
▶ Please scroll down to appropriate date and click 'Register for this event'

Agenda

Welcome / Opening Remarks

Overview of latest IBM xSeries Announcements

Intel
Intel's view of the marketplace relative to Linux Intel's view of the IBM xSeries as a player and more...

Red Hat
The future of Open Source in the enterprise
Red Hat technical road map including Enterprise Linux 3 preview
How customers are deploying Open Source solutions today

Linux Evangelist Bruce Perens
- Creator of the Open Source Definition
- Co-Founder of the Open Source Initiative
- Former HP Senior Global Strategist for Linux and Open Source
- Credited on the films A Bug's Life and Toy Story II

IBM's Linux Strategy
Investment
What we're seeing in the marketplace
Alliances Red Hat, United Linux,
IBM Support for Linux
Road map

Closing Remarks